After a lengthy discussion which did not prove to be as heated as expected, the town council meeting adjourned at 11.15 last Friday night. This was the first meeting held by the council in nearly four weeks, July having five Mondays. There was a long list of accounts to be passed as well as other business to be discussed. The mayor, reeve, deputy-reeve and six councillors were all present at the meeting.

A letter received from Allan Mills, solicitor, was read to council stating that Mrs. Mabel Cane had been paying sewer charges for the past few years on her property on Ellen St. and that as there are no sewers on the street she wished a refund of her money.

The council decided to refund Mrs. Cane $100.00, which is the amount paid for sewer charges

W. I. MEMBERS VISIT MRS. N. L. MATHEWS

Members of the Women's Institute are spending today at Thunder Bay, at the home of Mrs. N. L. Mathews. They are travelling to Thunder Bay by chartered bus.

In the past 12 years, Clerk N. L. Mathews stated that he thought it was very generous to pay her that amount, as she just bought the property in 1931 but she paid some arrears in taxes. "This is a mistake dating back to the time when Mr. Anderson was clerk," stated Clerk Mathews. "Instead of putting the sewer charge against the Eagle St. property he put it against Ellen St., where no sewers are laid. When the properties changed hands the sewer rates were charged to the Ellen St. property and they have been charged to it ever since. There is no doubt that Mrs. Cane has been overcharged, as she paid $8.40 too much every year, but legally we do not have to pay (Page 7, Col. 3)

Public Shows Generous Approval Of Kiddies' Work

ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR WON BY STEWART PAIGE, BARRIE

The public responded nobly to the Lions club's annual appeal last evening for help in carrying on their good work for the children of the town.

"The attendance was good and I think the financial result will be very satisfactory," said President Jack Luck.

The Stuart Scott school grounds were bright and gay with the merry throng from early in the evening until well past the midnight hour. Chairman Frank Courtney and his committee gave the crowd a full evening's entertainment.

Prizes given with admission tickets were won by the following: Electric refrigerator, S. L. Paige, Barrie, Simcoe county agricultural representative; grandfather's clock, Mr. Hotchew, Aurora; bicycle, Wm. Geer, Newmarket; cedar chest, Carl Preston, Newmarket; electric mixer, Max Smith, Newmarket; 100-lb. bag sugar, R. H. W. Abbott, Tottenham; coffee drip-

BRAMMAR-WAINMAN NUPTIALS HELD

White and pink gladioli formed the setting for the wedding at her home on Monday afternoon of Mavis Sparling Wainman, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Gerald Wainman, to Austin J. Brammar, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brammar, all of Newmarket. Rev. R. R. McMath officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a frosty white net over taffeta, with bouffant double net skirt and charmingly lace jacket. Her shoulder veil was caught to her head by a halo of lily-of-the-valley, and she carried a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Miss Geraldine Wainman, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and chose powder blue net over taffeta and wore a Scotch cap of blue flowers with pink velvet streamers. She carried brimless roses. The wedding music was played by a string quartet and during the signing of the register they rendered "O Promise Me."

Mrs. C. G. Wainman, the bride's mother, received the guests, gowning in black net trimmed with white and wore a corsage of American beauty roses. The groom's mother chose a beige figured crepe dress and black accessories and a corsage of Johanna Hill roses.

Following the reception the happy couple left for the Lake of Bays. For travelling the bride wore a navy sheer suit trimmed with white, with navy accessories. On their return they will reside in Newmarket.

BOGARTTOWN TEMPERANCE WORKER VISITS BEVERAGE ROOMS TO LEARN FIRST-HAND

Representing the Canadian Friends Service Committee, of which she is the convener for temperance work, Mrs. Elma M. Starr of Bogarttown last week was a delegate to the training school for temperance workers, held at Willard Hall, Toronto, under the auspices of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of the province of Ontario. The conference lasted from Aug. 8 to Aug. 11.

"One of the leaders and principal speakers was Miss Bertha Rachel Palmer, of Evanston, Ill.," Mrs. Starr told The Era. "She is a director of alcohol education for the United States W. C. T. U. She was a wonderful speaker and I think should be regarded as a second Frances Willard."

"About 45 or 50 attended the school," said Mrs. Starr. "I seemed to be the only delegate from this entire district north of Toronto. It is unfortunate that more don't avail themselves of this splendid opportunity."

"A group of six of us, with Dr. George Little, Sunday-school publications editor of the United church, and another of the leaders of the school, visited seven of the Toronto beverage rooms, on the Thursday evening," continued Mrs. Starr. "There were not many patrons in any of them, likely because of the lovely evening to go to the parks. However, we felt that the people outside looked happier than those inside."

The group visited the huge new Roncesvalles and Queen St. hotel and beverage room which is still under construction and about which there has been such controversy.

"This is a perfect example of the break-down of democracy in our province," Dr. Little told the gathering, referring to the storm of protest against it from business men, temperance organizations, the mayor, council and board of control and many others. "But the Hon. A. St. Clair Gordon said that the license had been granted and there was no appeal."

Courageous Men Needed In Ministry, Methodists Told

BELHAVEN BOY ELECTED BY COLLEAGUES AS A DIS- TRICT ELDER

Bishop M. D. Ormston preached at the first religious service held in connection with the 44th session of the East Ontario Annual Conference of the Free Methodist church in Canada in the church here last night. He used for a text the words of Jesus, "If any man will come after me let him deny himself, take up his cross daily and follow me."

The bishop laid great stress on self-denial and cross bearing as the price of discipleship today as much as it was when Jesus spoke the words of the text. He said it was a life-time proposition for every individual and if the will were submitted to the divine will "and the death route were taken there would come to the person present favor and blessing from the Lord."

The church was packed to overflowing and a number were standing at the rear of the church. The religious services will be held after this in the United church.

At the second sitting of conference, this morning, two young preachers who had been on probation in the conference were received into full relation and elected to deacon's orders, namely, J. S. Martin, Cordova, and W. W. Simpkins, Mountain Grove.

The following ordained preachers and their delegates reported for their respective circuits: Rev. S. S. Bailey, Bracebridge, Mrs. Mary Shier, delegate; Rev. M. S. Benn, supernumerary minister; Rev. R. Sedore, Harrowsmith, Mrs. Fannie Brown, delegate; Rev. A. B. Moffatt, Campbellford, Miss Edith Mainprize, delegate; Rev. B. Babcock, Newmarket, Mrs. Mazon Ende, delegate.

The order of the day at 10.30 was the election of district elders. The following were elected: S. B. Griffith, J. F. Gregory, C. W. Kay.

C. W. Kay is the elder elected to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Rev. A. F. Ball, who has served as elder for the past eight years. Mr. Kay is a young man and has served the Warkworth circuit the past four years. He brings with him a life-long association with the church, and should serve as district elder with acceptability. He was born and raised near Belhaven.

After a recess of five minutes, the reports of preachers were continued: Rev. B. A. Sutton, Gravenhurst; Rev. R. L. Casement, Toronto first church, John Montgomery, delegate; Rev. L. C. Ball, Hillsdale, Mrs. Mino, delegate; Rev. C. W. Kay, Warkworth, John Beatty, Jr., delegate; Rev. N. A. Bosko, Marmora, Gordon Derry, delegate; Rev. R. Babcock, Picton, Lloyd Hughes, delegate; Rev. C. W. Reynolds, Westport, Emmerson Babcock, delegate.

Rev. C. W. Reynolds was elected to elder's orders.

The president spoke on the subject of "The Ministry" during the last 15 minutes of the sitting. His address was full of helpful suggestions to the preachers. He spoke on the burdens and cares of the pastor's work.

"God does not call a preacher to be a failure, but to be a success," he said. "God calls busy

MOUNT ALBERT BOY TURNS ANOTHER TRICK

Howard Spenceley, hard-hitting Mount Albert boxer, put another scalp in his belt two weeks ago at Rosetown, Sask., when he scored a knockout over Mickey Ryan, 190 pounds, in the sixth round of a scheduled ten-round fight.

Ryan was a tough, hard-punching fighter, but un-scienceed, and the Mount Albert boy, who has been schooling in the U. S. A., had no trouble with him.

Spenceley is out west with Bill Raymond giving some broken ribs a chance to heal, and kept his "rack" well protected in the bout with Ryan.

men to the ministry."

He called attention to hindrances and helps to the minister in his work. He emphasized the need of being a faithful pastor as well as a pulpit man. "He should be a man with a message, a man of courage. He ought to be careful of his personal appearance, both in the pulpit and on the street."

JEAN BOYD IS BRIDE OF W. W. STATTON

The marriage took place quietly in Donlands United church, Toronto, on Wednesday, of Jean Evelyn, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Boyd, of Newmarket, and Mr. Walter Wendell Statton, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Statton, of Toronto. Rev. W. B. Smith officiated. The bride was attended by Miss Jane E. Park, of Sutton, and the groomsmen was Mr. Glenn Boyd, of Bradford. Edmore Wilson Turney presided at the organ.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowning in white sheer over taffeta. Her finger-ring length veil was held by a coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of tallman roses.

Miss Jane E. Park, as bridesmaid, wore a white dress with white tulle, cut on princess lines, with matching hat. She carried a bouquet of pink gladioli and roses.

A reception for the immediate families was held at the Old Mill.

Mr. and Mrs. Statton left on a motor trip to Muskoka, the bride going away in a blue sheer dress with navy blue accessories and fur bolero. They will reside in Toronto.

BOWSER STUMPS FOR LIONS CLUB

No one seemed to know anything about an item for repairing the bowling green which came up at a town council meeting Friday evening.

Bowser: "I guess I'm the one to explain that. We wanted to move that old stump near the Lions' Park. I asked Date Crowder to give it a little jar and boy he sure jarred it. The bowling green looked like a ploughed field. There were some women bowling and fortunately we asked them to duck around the booth. The stump landed over on Eagle St."

Vaie: "Well, what will we do about it?"

Lundy: "Charge it up to miscellaneous. Mark it paid. He's a great fellow, that miscellaneous."

BIG BAND NIGHT WILL BE A HOT TIME IN TOWN

TWO NEWMARKET BANDS PLAN CELEBRATION OF CONQUEST

HOLD SPEECH DERBY

What is the "Big Band Night?" Many citizens are asking this question and are wondering just what it is all about.

This is the answer. Many towns with bands that have accomplished what the two Newmarket bands have just recently at Waterloo, hold celebrations that verge into the hysterical. Just like election night when everybody throws things to the winds.

Last year when the Georgetown band won Class B at Waterloo as the Newmarket Citizens' Band has this year, the citizens of Georgetown held an all-night celebration with bonfires on the Main St., etc.

The R. S. A. Bugle Band and Citizens' Band do not expect to burn the town down on Sept. 13, but they sure will make things hot.

An outstanding parade of extravaganzas is in the making. Already 22 floats have been promised. Prizes will be given for these, also prizes for best decorated doll-carriages, bicycles and groups.

So all boys and girls are invited to enter this fine parade. Another unique event will be the soap-box derby. This type of racing for boys has been made very popular recently over the air, at the world's championship soap-box derby, Akron, Ohio.

At the King George school grounds the presentation of medals will take place with a fine program of music, fun and games. In conjunction with "Big Band Night," members of the two bands are busy selling tickets on a grand draw to be held on "Big Band Night," Sept. 13, at the King George school grounds.

PRETTY SHOWER HELD FOR BRIDE-TO-BE

A miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Miss Edith McClymont on Monday evening, in honor of a bride of this week, Miss Jean Boyd.

There were about 45 present. The bride-to-be was the recipient of many lovely and useful gifts. The room was prettily decorated in pink and white, with a horse-shoe made of pink and white flowers in the archway as the guests entered the room, and under which the bride-to-be was seated.

The table was also decorated in a pink and white scheme, with pink and white candles and sweet peas.

The hostesses were Mrs. F. Boyd, Miss Gertrude Menar, Miss Kathleen Rutledge and Miss Edith McClymont.

A dainty lunch brought a very enjoyable evening to a close and the bride-to-be left amid good wishes from her friends for a happy future.

Redmen Turn Faces To Sun As They Put Shadows Behind 'Em

NEWMARKET SQUAD LACK RELIEF PITCHER IN TITLE STRUGGLE

HILL DESERVES WIN

By JACK PEPPIATT

Capitalizing on the breaks and drum-tight twirling by Bennett, the Richmond Hill softball squad routed the Redmen by a 10-7 count in the first game of the play-offs Tuesday.

The Indians chose to play this initial contest in the Hill ball park. Bennett was the villain with his slow ball, change of pace and relaxed control.

Some misplaced strategy on the part of the locals also contributed to this surprising upheaval. A rabid Hill crowd, all confirmed hecklers, were on hand as the game got underway.

The Redmen started out like the champions they are. Trivett, lead-off man, was out. Brammer then walked and Cain reached the front-door slot via the same route.

Gibney then whistled out a two-bagger, sending Brammer and Cain over the plate. Cunningham grabbed off a single, scoring Gibney. Peters was out on a pop fly.

VanZant then tripled to score Cunningham. Stong was yanked for Bennett, who retired the side at four runs.

In the second Niles poled out a homer and Newmarket garnered a run in the sixth and ninth innings. However, after the first splurge the breaks favored Richmond Hill in no uncertain way—this squad was hot and hard to handle.

The sixth inning saw the Hill put the game in the bag. Buchanan, the hot-corner custodian, walked and advanced on Creane's single. Bennett snatched out a triple, scoring two runs.

A double by Brown, the short-stop, sent Bennett across the plate. Bryan singled to score Brown. Before they were retired four runners crossed the home sack.

After this inning Niles was pitching on heart alone and took a terrific heckling from the sidelines. He lost confidence and tired quickly after this fiasco.

The Redmen had luck, but all (Page 4, Col. 5)

Tanners End Controversy And Go On To Music War

SCORE IS DECIDEDLY ONE- SIDED AS ANGLICANS ARE PUT OUT

By JACK PEPPIATT

A rampaging band of tanners put the Sons of England softball squad out of the play-off picture by a 16-3 count on Monday.

This was a renewal of the controversy-riddled game called off Friday with two men of the S. O. E. out in the last inning and the D. L. Company leading by one run.

At the end of the third the leather array was one up with four runs. The break of the game came in the fourth. Townsley started it off by flying out. Shorty Turan reached the first sack and was advanced when Jack Drury pounded out a single.

Haskett then batted a single and Turan scored. Drury came in on a sacrifice play and two runs were chalked up.

The count was then 6-3 for D. L. Co., and scoring after this canto was confined to the tannery squad.

Sons of England tried hard but were under tension all the way and blundered badly at times. Stan Evans and Barker, in order, were batted from the box and Fred Evans finished the mound chores.

Townsley pitched the entire seven innings for the victors and was the stand-out performer. Shorty Turan accounted for every atom he possessed and missed a round trip on the bases in the sixth by a whisker.

Every last position was handled well on this team. S. O. E. defence strategy was missing badly and with blunders spelled defeat.

The leather men go on to the last round of the town play-offs tomorrow night against the Bugle Band at the school grounds.

Only Darkness Stops Those Girl Softball Magicians

GAME LAST EVENING CALLED FOR DARKNESS, NEWMARKET LEADING

Only darkness, apparently, can stop Alex Webster's fleet-footed girl wonders. In the absence of an official league mathematician, Fisherville and Newmarket stand at the top of the schedule with Unionville close by. The play-offs will be between two of these three teams.

The score was 17-13 for Newmarket at the fair grounds last evening, with the locals not getting their turn at bat in the fifth. Fisherville was not ready to call it a game, quoting the league rule that a game must go seven innings.

Darkness brought an undisputed end to a game with Thornhill at Thornhill last Wednesday. The final score was 25-3 for Newmarket. In spite of the score, the game at Thornhill was one of the snappiest Newmarket has yet played.

The Newmarket infield shone particularly. Thornhill was short some of their regular players and substituted school youngsters, putting up a sporty defence throughout. The Websterettes scored ten runs in the first inning. Del Gibney was referee.

The previous week Newmarket defeated Maple 18-10 at Maple. Speedy Giles, veteran of many a softball game, as umpire, took a wicked crack on the jaw.

Agincourt defeated Newmarket in a good game on Saturday by a 18-8 score in a tournament at Agincourt.

A good crowd enjoyed the new bleachers at the fair grounds to see last evening's game with Fisherville. Fisherville got none in the first, and Newmarket got one. Both got two in the second. The locals had a nice double play in this inning, Osborne to Beckett to Doane, with one already out.

Fisherville stepped out in the third and scored four runs. Newmarket took ten and lost another when Moss Doane clouted a home run but failed to touch first or second. Beckett, Manning and Osborne had home runs in this inning.

In the fourth Fisherville scored one and Newmarket four. The visitors opened the fifth with six runs, and then the game was called at 17-13.

WAKING UP THE WEEKLY

It is not a bad thing once in a while to go back to school for a few days. Weekly newspaper editors of Canada did that very thing two weeks ago. First they spent three days at Niagara Falls in business and educational sessions and then they went on to the world's fair at New York for two days of eye-opening. The existence of practically every institution is challenged today, and the institution which would continue to exist must meet the challenge with new ideas, new methods, greater efficiency and greater service. Weekly newspapers are changing rapidly today to meet new forms of competition and to retain their place in the town and country home, and weekly newspaper conventions are designed to help the publishers keep abreast of the times and remain in the race.

Editors As Listeners

At Niagara Falls, in addition to attending business and shop-talk sessions, the publishers heard such speakers as Mayor Carl D. Hanniwell, youthful mayor of Niagara Falls, Louis Blake Duff, Welland, famed after-dinner speaker, W. J. Stewart, M. L. A., ex-mayor of Toronto, George Johnston, public relations counsel, Dean M. Lyle Spencer, director of the school of journalism, Syracuse University, Frank B. Hutchinson, secretary-manager of the New York Press Association, Hon. Wm. L. Houck, minister without portfolio in the Ontario government, D. Leo Dolan, chief of the Canadian Travel Bureau, Glen Bannerman, president of the Association of Canadian Advertisers, John Martin, advertising manager of the Massey-Harris Co., and Don Henshaw, Toronto advertising agency man. There was a lot to hear and to agree or disagree with.

Easy To Agree With

Another speaker was Vernon Knowles, former newspaperman, now public relations man for the Canadian Bankers' Association, who was naturally much applauded when he said that he took the same position as when a newspaperman, namely, that when a business institution wants to tell the public something it should do so through paid advertising space and not try to secure free publicity. Mr. Knowles also won approval when he expressed his belief that weekly newspapers are closer to the public and are more respected than other classes of advertising media.

Editors Applaud Again

Mr. Stewart had some ideas too that seemed to appeal to the weekly men. "The policy of the newspaper is one thing, friendship with the editors is another," said Mr. Stewart. "People shouldn't think that friendship with the editors will be allowed to interfere with policy." Mr. Stewart said with a smile that he had never been misquoted by a newspaper. No doubt he has been misquoted, but he is big enough to overlook it. Mr. Stewart spoke with concern about "ten years with nearly a million on relief," and hoped for political divisions "no longer on party lines, but on the basis of what is good for the people."

Deplores Closed Meeting

Mr. Duff said that he saw every day attempts to throttle the freedom of the press. "A school board meeting is held behind closed doors. A council meeting is held behind closed doors. Other speakers referred to this matter of freedom of the press, and the freedom of the air. They gave warnings against any attempt on the part of governments to control the press, and at least one deplored the federal government's successful attempt to control the air-waves.

Newspaper Trophies

An important part of the program at Niagara Falls was the newspaper and printing competitions. These competitions are not for the purpose of making the more fortunate publishers feel elated, but to stimulate all to an effort to produce better newspapers. The competitions become more numerous every year. The principal awards, for the best all-round newspapers, were: over 2,000 circulation, Mason trophy, Penticton, B. C.; Herald, over 1,000 circulation, Charles Clark cup, Kelowna, B. C.; Courier, over 500, Hugh Savage shield, Wolfville, N. S.; Acadian, under 500, Charters cup, Grenfell, Sask., Sun. The competing newspapers were on display at the convention. The winning journals were all excellent productions of which their towns may well be proud.

A TALE OF TRAVEL

Tired from travel, the writer does not feel in a properly pugnacious mood for editorial writing, but will instead try to tell something of what he saw while away. First, let us put in a word for the Canadian National Railways, by which we did the major part of our travelling. We travelled on three different United States railroads but none of them was superior to our own C. N. R. The dining-car service of one of the U. S. roads was markedly inferior to the C. N. R.'s spick-and-span dining-cars, and the dining-car prices of another U. S. road were at least 50 per cent higher than Canadian dining-car prices.

Tumbling Waters

Niagara Falls is magnificent. The Harry Oakes gardens have tremendously increased the beauty of the falls since we saw them last. There was a wonderful view of the Oakes gardens and the falls, illuminated, from the top of the General Brock hotel at night. Nothing could be much more beautiful. American tourists were legion. We also enjoyed a visit to historic old Fort Erie, recently restored. We wished we had the time to visit all the Niagara peninsula spots made interesting by the war of 1812.

"Newark" Close To "Chair"

On the way to New York we went down the Hudson river, passing right under Sing-Sing penitentiary and within a few feet of the electric chair. We saw many elaborate estates. The Roosevelt estate was not visible from the railway, but Father Divine's "heaven" was, although the writer missed out on this high point. Going into New York city we went through unbelievable miles of apartment houses, and finally right through Harlem, which was black with humanity. It was a Sunday afternoon, and there seemed to be negroes in every window. Streets were dotted with them and laden with old papers and refuse.

Stretching the Neck

In New York we were whirled to our hotel by a taxi. Seemingly there are no traffic police in New York. There are lots of stop-lights, but it seems to be mostly a case of every man for himself. The Sunday evening of our arrival we enjoyed a "rubber-neck" bus cruise about the city, seeing Fifth Ave., Times Square, Broadway, Wall St., the Bowers, the Statue of Liberty, and many of the towering buildings.

Canada First

The next two days were spent at the world's fair, which was situated about eight miles from our hotel. The fair grounds must be at least two miles wide by three miles long, and include two artificial lakes. Needless to say, we saw very little of what there was to be seen. The first morning we made a visit to the Canadian building, where only three provinces, Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, were represented with their own displays. Mr. Hepburn has evidently allowed his quarrel with Mr. King to warp his better judgment, for fair visitors have been numbering 100,000 daily. The Canadian government entertained us at lunch following the visit to the Canadian building.

"The World of Tomorrow"

In the afternoon we visited the perisphere, a great circular ball in which is seen a modernly planned city of the future. It was interesting, and cleverly arranged, but everybody seemed to be agreed that it was not quite as remarkable as it should have been. Finding one's way about the fair was quite a problem. There was an elaborate system of buses, and there were also innumerable college boys pushing sedan cars at a cost of $1 an hour. The writer spent an interesting afternoon going through some of the government buildings. Each state in the union has its own building. We believe that it was in the Maryland building that we saw a photograph of a painting by Whistler of four great medical and surgical men, founders of Johns Hopkins medical school, of whom one was the late Sir William Osler, native of our neighboring village of Bond Head.

Propaganda Exhibits

The Czechoslovak building was a protest against Germany's ruthless treatment of the former republic. The story of the Bata family, and their shoe-making industry, was told in a series of stained-glass windows. The Russian building, which is to be transported piece by piece to Russia when the fair is over, was splendid. Everywhere were to be seen socialist inscriptions and comparisons of Russia in 1913 with Russia in 1938. Among many exhibits was a stoutly built wood-burning tractor.

You Can't See It All

There were hundreds of other buildings to be visited if one had the time, and most of them would have been well worth it. In the medical building we saw an anaesthesia demonstration. A robot doctor gave the anaesthetic to a dummy, who reacted with a slight convulsion and then with regular and deep breathing, while a loud-speaker explained what was going on.

A Couple of Shows

That evening came to a conclusion with attendance at the "Hot Mikado," which was an amusing jazz interpretation of Gilbert & Sullivan's operetta by a negro cast, who made excellent Japanese. The next evening we saw the "Aquascope," a stage and swim performance played before 8,000 people at least three times daily. A great swimming-pool lies between the audience and the stage. The choruses take to swim-suits to perform marvellous drills in the water, their red caps glistening like lilies under the play of the spot-lights. This is tremendously popular.

Horizons of 1960

Another popular point is the General Motors exhibit. Long line-ups wait at all times to see this exhibit. It takes an hour to get in, sometimes longer. Representatives of the press were fortunate in not having to go through the line. Once inside you stepped on an escalator and sat down in a deep chair, which was taken up hill and down dale as you saw the exhibit. There was a different loud-speaker for each chair, telling you just what was in front of your chair at the moment. The exhibit itself was called "Highways and Horizons of the Future," and was an engineer's conception of the highways, inter-sections, bridges, and motor-traffic of 1960. "Before you is the old-fashioned clover-leaf intersection of 1930. Now you see the intersection of 1960." We won't try to describe it. Then we saw the engineer's conception of a city of 1960. Finally we saw a modern city street with pedestrians on one level and motor traffic down below, and emerging from the belt we saw a replica of the same idea on a real-life scale, as part of the General Motors building. Equipped with an elevator, this building is one of the hundreds to be torn down when the fair is over. The fair is likely to run this year and next.

Ultra-Modern

The buildings generally were smart and ultra-modern. Many of them were built of building boards which were a good imitation of stone.

An Iron Lung In Action

Another building where we spent a pleasant hour was Borden's Milk building, where model cows in model homes gave model milk for all the family. From there an accident to one of our party took us to an emergency station, where we were interested to see an iron lung, used, we believe, in polio cases. A lady with us volunteered to try it out, and spent 15 minutes in the lung having her breathing done for her without effort by herself. Incidentally, the officials of this emergency station were typical of everybody with whom we came in contact in their kindness and helpfulness.

Somewhere about this point we met Mr. Millard, advertising manager for Canada of the

THE CHUMS VISIT THE LAKESHORE

BY RUTH DINGMAN HEBB

"How perfectly delightful it is here by the lake!" said Merry Chickadee to her friend, Mrs. Woody Woodpecker. "There's a lovely breeze in spite of the heat. I'm so glad that you and Woody persuaded us to come up with you."

"I think I'll just go over this nice birch tree trunk for insects," said Mrs. Woodpecker practically. "I'm quite hungry."

"So is that big Kingfisher who was a second ago perched on that limb over hanging the water," said Merry. "He has been plunging into the lake after fish very energetically ever since we arrived."

"There are quite a number of Spotted Sandpipers swooping up and down the shore and giving that shrill call of theirs," said Young Chips, who just then returned with Woody from a little reconnaissance up and down the shore.

"And we saw some Caspian Terns, too," added Woody. "They are becoming quite rare now, you know. They are scattered all over Canada, but are not at all common."

"How did you know them when you saw them?" asked Merry.

"They are much like the Ring-billed Gulls in size," explained Young Chips, "and they are the largest of the Terns, about 21 inches long, while the Common Terns are only about 15 inches. They're quite like their Common Tern cousins though—white, with a black cap and a red bill and slightly forked tail."

"The Caspian Tern has an ugly hoarse voice and just says 'Casp,'" added Woody. "There goes one of them now, beating its wings in a slow, graceful way. The Common Terns move much more quickly."

"Just listen to those young Gulls," said Mrs. Woody. "Don't their squawky young voices sound terrible? Are the Gulls around here Ring-billed or Herring Gulls?"

"Oh, there are both kinds," replied her mate. "The Herring Gulls are ever so much bigger, and, of course, they haven't got the dark ring around their bills like the smaller Gulls."

"Why, how do you do Mr. Redstart?" exclaimed Merry politely, as a beautiful little black and white and orange-red warbler alighted in the birch tree and began fluttering and flitting around very restlessly. "I hope you don't mind us visiting this tree. Is it one of your favorites? We are just visitors for the day up here at the lake."

"Well, yes it is," admitted the Redstart. "I nested in that sapling right there and spend a great deal of my time in this tree, but you are quite welcome, I'm sure." With these words he darted away so swiftly that the chums didn't even see where he had gone.

"Just look at those two Phoebe's chasing each other," Young Chips remarked. "I wonder what they are quarrelling about. Probably it's a parent trying to bring up a difficult young one in the strait and narrow path."

"Why, what a funny little Heron that is flying up there!" broke in Mrs. Woody. "It must be a young one, it's so small for a Great Blue Heron. They are huge creatures. It is flying with neck tucked in and long legs out in the funny way that Herons have."

"I'll tell you why you think that bird is small for a Great Blue Heron," Young Chips answered. "It's not a Great Blue, but a Little Blue."

Ford Motor Company, whose grandfather, we learned, was Newmarket-born. The Ford company also had an outstanding exhibit, and Mr. Millard acted as guide to those of our party who were able to visit it.

Subways A Thrill

We do not wish to quit without saying that this was the writer's first visit to New York. We got quite a kick out of the subways, and in a few more days would have felt like a real New Yorker.

Turkey Entertains

Let us not forget a visit to the Turkish building, where we were guests for "afternoon tea." We didn't have tea, but a cool Turkish drink, and Turkish foods. A Turkish born girl, in perfect English (she had an English governess in childhood) told us of modern Turkey's accomplishments and of Turkey's peaceful intentions.

A Short Visit

Then we were off for Nova Scotia, on an unexpected visit. One of two days in Nova Scotia was given over to a motor trip through the Annapolis valley to Digby, on the Bay of Fundy. New paved highways make Nova Scotia motoring a delight. Tourists are scarcer this year, in Nova Scotia as in Ontario. It was our first extensive visit to the famous fruit-growing valley, which we found not nearly so beautiful as the lovely south shore on the Atlantic side. On our return to the south shore we think that the loveliest view was as we approached the town of Mahone Bay, which is beyond our description.

Fellow Travelers

We had to turn right around and head for home, by way of Montreal. We encountered many interesting people on the train. There was

"Well, how unusual!" Mrs. Woody gasped. "I don't believe I ever saw one before."

"Quite likely you haven't," agreed Young Chips. "They only occur accidentally in Canada, and are not nearly as common as the Green Herons, which are only a little smaller. The Little Blue Heron is a slaty blue all over, like his big cousin, the Great Blue, but is only about half the size. The Little Blues can be distinguished from the Green Herons by their lack of any green plumage and they are less heavily built. And an unusual thing about them is that the young ones are pure white in plumage."

"There seem to be quite a few birds up here today after all," said Merry. "I thought when we first came that there was scarcely a soul around."

"I noticed when we passed that deserted gravel pit near the lake that there were a great many nests that the Bank Swallows had built in the clay bank, but not a single Swallow was to be seen anywhere nearby," Woody remarked.

"Yes, and a few weeks ago the place was swarming with them," added Merry.

"That just goes to show you that the summer is drawing to a close and the Swallows are flocking with the other Swallows on the marshes, getting ready to migrate," said Young Chips.

"My goodness! The summer has gone terribly quickly," said Mrs. Woody. "It seems like yesterday that my children were just hatched out, and now they are almost grown up and able to look after themselves."

"That is, we hope they are, my dear," put in Woody.

"Yes, and perhaps we had better start for home and see if everything is all right in Newmarket," said Merry. "It has been a lovely trip, though, and we have seen quite a number of birds who are up here enjoying the late summer by the lake."

"We are considering nesting up here next year," Mrs. Woody told Merry, on their way home. "It would get us away from the heat of the inland district."

"We birds shouldn't really complain of the heat the way the humans do, though," Merry reminded her. "Our body temperature is so much higher than theirs that it has to be pretty hot before we really feel it. I guess that's why lots of birds sing and seem to have pep even in sultry weather."

"We certainly have the advantage of humans in lots of ways," said her friend. "Imagine not being able to skim over the fields on your own wings on a beautiful summer day."

"It's unthinkable," agreed Merry.

An interesting statement which he made was that the good farmer does his last plowing with horses. He may plow the first time with a tractor, but the last time he uses horses, which tramp down the land in a way that the tractor doesn't do, he said. He also said that there was more need for brains in farming than in most callings, and that farmers who used their heads, and really understood the rotation of crops and what various crops do to the soil, are making good even under present difficult circumstances. He told of a farmer in England with 100,000 acres under cultivation.

The Modern Woman

There were several other interesting people on our train whom we got to know, but we will mention just one other, a young lady employed with a mortgage company in Regina. She reached Montreal with the rest of us on Sunday evening and was due at the office in Regina at 8 a.m. Monday. She took the trans-Canada plane, which would reach Regina at 7 a.m. With only two weeks holidays, she had travelled by plane on her way east also. She was going to Nova Scotia. As yet the trans-Canada service does not extend to the Maritimes.

We Need A Rest

We don't know whether our 12-day trip should be called a holiday or a vacation. Whichever it was, we now need a rest.

The Common Round

SOME CITIES

By Isabel Inglis Colville

What do you remember most about the cities you have visited—their beauty, their friendliness—or their historical significance—or do you just think of them as cities and let them go at that?

I was talking to a friend the other day who had taken a trip east and visited Ottawa.

"How did you like it?" I asked her.

"We never even knew we were in it, at first," said she, "we drove straight through to Hull."

For myself, I've always had a sort of guilty feeling about Ottawa—never liked it. I've entered it by boat and by train but it always left me cold.

I suppose the reasons you visit a city have something to do with your appreciation of it, and there was only one occasion on which I was there merely to visit its places of interest and do what I pleased.

I went there to sing at recitals a few times, and, as I never can find my way around any city, I was a source of irritation to street car conductors, policemen and most of all to myself, until I reached the studio, and then, even while I sang—or tried to sing—the thought of the trip back to the station haunted me.

The time we entered it from the water, we were accompanied by a violent thunder storm. About three o'clock in the afternoon, the sky began to grow black and little gusts of wind whipped the river into the kind of waves that make a boat do funny things—and this was a crowded excursion boat.

My aunt, as once before, on the rapids, retired to her stateroom, and the rest of us stayed on deck till the kind of lightning began which I felt was aimed directly at me, and from which I retreat in good order—otherwise, as the occasion warrants.

The cabin was crowded with crying children and distracted parents. It grew darker and darker, the only light, the terrifyingly weird electric flashes which made the scene resemble the old pictures of Hades. It was wonderful to step off that boat and drink in the freshness of the rain-washed atmosphere.

As we stood there, my uncle said, "We'll go right to the hotel and have dinner and then we can talk over our plans,"—but where's your mother? he asked, for Aunt Mary had been—but was not!

"Oh papa look!" cried my cousin, distractedly, and there, getting on a street car, just as it moved off, was the truant, beckoning to us wildly, but it was in vain. We tried to follow, but—street cars wait for no man. Had she her purse, and will she remember the name of the hotel? We wondered, for we had made few plans. However, we meekly followed on the next car, and found her triumphantly interviewing the manager, and waiting impatiently for us slow pokes.

We saw Ottawa's beauty spots, her parks, her parliament buildings, her three rivers, her wooded crags, but although I admired, I formed no liking for the city, then nor at any future time. I sang in St. Andrew's church for a few times, following my father's death and my better half and I sang at a music festival in the Russell Theatre, later, but—I felt the city cold and unfriendly. To me Ottawa is like a Grande Dame of old

France, before the revolution—aloof, untouched and untouchable by the common folk. Montreal was different. It, too, I have entered by water and by land.

Against the heat haze of a hot summer day, it looked dreamlike—the sound of church bells ringing the Angelus, came to us over the water, bringing a sense of peace which was not borne out as we stepped off the gangplank onto the noisy waterfront, and the promise of noise stayed with us all the days of our stay.

In Summer Park, which we visited, all I remember is the noise, and the poor trained seals, who played ball and also cymbals—it makes me sick to this day to think of them floundering about so unnaturally.

We went through the cobblestone streets of the old part of the city—narrow, twisted—and above all—dirty. So many of those we met seemed to have had smallpox, and I think we all breathed freer when we came into more open ways—and air—not contaminated by the dead cats—we really saw one or two lying on the stone way.

The Chateau de Ramezay was a treasure house of memories of Montreal in the days of the Seigneurs, and I'm sorry I did not write down the things which impressed me most, but sometime—I hope—I'll visit it again.

Toronto, I called a "City of Churches," but I'm sure I NEVER was in as many as in those few days in Montreal.

Those we visited were nearly all Roman Catholic—some severely plain—and beautiful in their severity—and some ornate to the point of garishness, but—and it's a big but—in nearly every one, someone was kneeling in prayer. And it WAS prayer. The presence of tourists coming and going, although quietly, inevitably made some sound, but these people seemed immune to anything but their own meditations.

But feet and necks gave out, and we sought refuge in St. James' (Anglican) Cathedral and sat thankfully down and listened to some heavenly music, and thought some thoughts not out of keeping with the peacefulness of the sanctuary. There were some here, too, sitting quietly or kneeling, and I've wondered often why so few of our Protestant churches are open through the week.

They are a veritable oasis in a desert land, and one cannot enter them without feeling something of the "peace of God which passes all understanding," creeping into one's heart—so why are they so often open only on Sunday, as if our religion was only for Sunday, instead of being our shield and buckler, in daily battle against the principalities and powers of evil?

But back to Montreal—as a city—we drove up the mountain, with horses. The scenery was beautiful. And the horses looked beautiful, but I thought what a wonderful place for a run-away—only they didn't run-away.

We visited friends and saw sights, but Montreal reminds me of a business man—big business—important, cosmopolitan, in some ways distinguished—but with the feeling that he lived always in hotels, and that home life was too uninteresting. Other cities next week.

POLICE COURT COURT SEES ATTEMPT TO EVADE RULING

With 135 cases on the court list at police court here on Tuesday Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe presided over the longest list that has ever been settled in this court in one day since its inception two years ago.

Appearing for judgment on two charges of obstructing police and illegal possession of liquor, which was reduced under the liquor regulations, Arthur Holly, Holland Landing, was fined on the first charge $25 and costs, or 20 days, and on the second charge was fined an additional $20 and costs, or 20 days, and the liquor was ordered confiscated. The costs imposed on the two charges totalled $32.50. Holly's premises were declared public on June 20 this year.

"On June 23 you received notice from the Liquor Control Board that since your premises had been declared public you could only have liquor by getting a doctor's prescription," Magistrate Woodliffe told Holly. "You got a paper from Dr. Boyd, Newmarket, entitling you to 12 quarts of beer a week. However, I find that the note given you by the doctor was not a prescription and that the beer found in your house by the police was not legally obtained on a prescription."

"I am satisfied that an attempt was made to evade the order of this court declaring your premises public. However, Holly might have thought it a proper order so I am asking that the liquor charge be reduced. Your liquor privileges have been cut off, as you have abused your privileges. See that you don't do it again."

County Constable Ronald Watt testified last week that after trying for half an hour to gain entrance to Holly's house he and Constables Jas. Sloss and Roy Forsythe broke in two doors at the rear of the house and that Holly threatened them with a club when they went into the kitchen. On searching the cellar he found 12 quarts of beer hidden in a hole behind a cupboard and Holly produced a prescription for them written by Dr. S. J. Boyd, Constable Watt stated.

After reserving judgment since June 27 on a charge of giving false information to police, the magistrate committed Dr. G. A. C. Guntion, Aurora, for trial. Evidence given on June 27 stated that Dr. Guntion reported to police that he had been held up and robbed, and also beaten, by two unknown men in King township. Peter Muirhead and his son William testified at the previous hearing that they stopped Dr. Guntion's car to talk to him and that a fight ensued but that robbery was not their motive. The two men both stated that Dr. Guntion recognized them, as it was broad daylight.

Five charges of having illegal possession of liquor, having liquor for sale, and illegal purchase of liquor, laid against Ernest Doyle, Newmarket, were adjourned two weeks for hearing. Inspector William Brimacombe of the York county police laid the charges.

Two charges of having illegal possession of liquor laid against George Sutton, Whitchurch, and Howard Linstead, Sharon, were also adjourned two weeks. Bail was set at $1,000 for Albert E. Blakey, East York, who is charged with breaking and entering into the barber-shop of William Brown, Schomberg, early Tuesday morning. Three other youths with Blakey escaped Constable Gus Ferguson and got away. The youths left a high-powered late model car behind them, allegedly containing a lot of goods taken from the barber shop.

POLICE COURT TRESPASSES ON WHARF, COTTAGER CONVICTED

Convicted on a charge of reckless driving Albert Gould, Toronto, was fined $30 and costs of $11.50, or ten days, and in addition his driver's license was cancelled for 30 days. Mr. Burman, Toronto, was defence counsel.

A charge of having illegal possession of liquor was reduced to consuming and Albert Vanstone, Cannington, was fined $10 and costs of $5.50, or ten days, and the liquor was ordered confiscated. Mason Horner, Cannington, was defence counsel.

"On July 30, at 3.35 a.m., I went to Pefferlaw with Constable Hill to keep William Gregg's premises under observation," testified County Constable Alex. McCallum. "A short time later I noticed a car back out of Gregg's driveway and we stopped it. The car was driven by William Johnston, Cannington, and Vanstone was in the back seat. While searching the car I noticed Vanstone take a quart bottle of beer from his pocket and put it on the floor. On searching the car I found another quart bottle of beer on the floor. Neither Vanstone or Johnston would admit ownership but I saw Vanstone myself put the one bottle on the floor."

A similar charge laid against William Johnston, driver of the car in which Vanstone was driving, was withdrawn. On a charge of trespassing on a private wharf at Orchard Beach, Mrs. Alfred Chaplin, Orchard Beach, was remanded for sentence and ordered to pay the court costs. Wm. C. Davidson, K. C., appeared for the complainant, D. McIntyre, North Gwillimbury.

Mr. Davidson stated that Mr. McIntyre had rebuilt the wharf at the foot of Cedar Rd. and Orchard Beach Gardens and that he charged the cottagers around there $5 yearly for the privilege of using. Mrs. Chaplin had been using the wharf this year without paying the fee, Mr. Davidson stated.

A charge of having illegal possession of liquor was reduced under the provision of the liquor regulations and J. W. Offield, Port Bolster, was fined $10 and costs of $15, or ten days, the liquor was ordered confiscated, and Offield's premises were declared public. A second charge of illegal purchase of liquor was withdrawn. Gordon Ford, Toronto, was defence counsel.

James Fryers, Toronto, was fined $5 and costs for leaving his car parked on the paved portion of the highway, while he went for some gas. Constable Ferguson stated there was heavy traffic going both ways, so he moved the car off the pavement.

Charges of careless driving laid against Joseph Goldman and John Chapman, both of Toronto, were dismissed by the magistrate.

Urgel Pigeau, North Bay, was fined $3 and costs for driving across a stop-light. Constable Ferguson stated that Pigeau went past three cars waiting for the light to change and drove right through the light.

Three Toronto motorists were each fined $4 and costs for careless driving on Yonge St., while Thomas Alfred Wood, Buffalo, was fined $7 with costs of $8 for the same offence. The three Toronto motorists were: Lloyd F. Elford, Eon Goldberg, and Leslie Dickinson.

Evidence
Judge—Did you see the shot that was fired?
Witness—No, I only heard it.
Judge—That is not sufficient evidence. You may retire.
As the witness left the stand and while his back was turned to the judge he laughed out loud. At once the judge recalled him for contempt of court.
Witness—Did you see me laugh?
Judge—No, but I heard you.
Witness—Insufficient evidence, your honor.

Somewhat Uncertain
In the midst of fierce fighting in the Spanish revolution two armed bodies were approaching each other so that a third was about to be caught between them.
The commander of the third party saw the predicament. On the left insurgents.
"General, why do you not give the order to fire?" asked an aide.
"I would like to," responded the general, "but I can't remember which side we're fighting for!"

In Memoriam

Harrison—In loving memory of Arthur Harrison who passed away Aug. 19, 1938.
I have lost my soul's companion, A life linked with my own;
And by day I miss him more, As I walk through life alone.
Sadly missed by his wife.

Ballton—In loving memory of Leonard Ballton who was killed Aug. 22, 1934.
It's not the time that tears are shed that tells of hearts that are torn,
But the lonely tears of the after years,
And remembrance, silently born.
God give us grace and strength,
Our faith and hope renewed,
For you will not return to us, but we will go to you.
Ever remembered by mother, dad and Beth.

NEWMARKET W. C. T. U.

Dr. Charles Mayo, who died recently, in addressing a large convention of boys, said in part: "You can get along with a wooden leg, but you can't get along with a wooden head. The physical value of man is not so much. It is the brain that counts, but in order that your brain may be kept clear, you must keep your body fit and well. That cannot be done if one drinks liquor. A man who drugs around a habit that is a danger and a menace to society ought to go off to the woods and live alone. We cannot tolerate the obvious use of morphine or cocaine or opium, and we should not tolerate intoxicating liquor, because I tell you these things are what break down the command of the individual over his own life and his own destiny."

"If educated to combat this evil, boys will not say, 'Why should I not have my rights as a citizen?' Keep yourselves free from all enslaving habits. Remember, it's the brain that counts."

HAS TWINS

BUT FEEDS FOUR

Two calves were born to "Swingling," a high producer of Holstein-Jersey ancestry, belonging to Elmer Starr, on his farm on the fourth concession of Whitechurch, a week ago Sunday. All are doing well. The mother is doing better than that, for she is giving so much milk that Mr. Starr had to give her two extra calves to feed. She has plenty for the four.

Two calves are unusual, but not phenomenal. Mr. Starr has never had twin calves on his farm before, but remembers twin calves on his father's farm 40 years ago.

Readily Identified
A city boy was out to take an inventory of a farm. He hadn't any experience in this type of work, but he managed to make a list of all the chattels and stock until he came to an animal which he was unable to identify—a goat.

So he phoned his home, and said: "What do you call this thing that's around here with a rough coat that's worn out in spots, a white beard, and a long, sad face?"

To which his boss replied: "That, you fool, is the farmer!"

PEPPER AND SALT

BY "PEP"

With elimination starting them in the face the Redmen are getting prepared to conquer a confident and victory-flashed Hill squad tonight. A fit and determined crew will answer the play ball order.

Every member of the team felt that the breaks were against them Tuesday. A poised Bennett pitched his best game of the season, while players usually "easy outs" were delivering like Yankees. (The New York variety).

Miles pitched a courageous game of ball but used bad judgment at times in handing out walks. No relief came his way and he was a tired man after this gruelling nine-inning affair. The result tonight will depend largely on the kind of ball directed across the platter.

Packed stands should be in evidence because the boys are shooting for the straight ticket. A band of local old faithfuls speculated the game Tuesday. The trouble was they couldn't be heard amid the heckling invectives thrown around by the Hill fans. They tried hard to make Joe Spillotte's life miserable, but Joe matched them tooth for tooth and nail for nail.

Softball is alone in the limelight this week. The Davis Leather Co. shunted the Sons of England from the play-off picture Monday. Tuesday saw the Redmen lose their first game of their series with Richmond Hill. The females played host to Fisherville Wednesday. Richmond Hill comes to town tonight and the town finals get underway tomorrow with the tanners and Bugle Band clashing.

The Toronto baseball club announces that it will again operate baseball schools this August in four Ontario centres. There will be no tuition fee and players of all classes are eligible to attend. Preference will be given to players registered with the Ontario Baseball Association and the sessions will be held from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day.

Dan Howley, Clyde Engle and Dink Carroll of the Toronto club will assist amateur club officials in the operation of the school and instruction of the players. Youngsters who make a good impression on the Toronto men have a chance of being taken south next March for the spring training session and getting started on a professional career.

Dehydrating Plant Continues Working

HAS CONTINUED OPERA-TION PLANT EXECUTIVE
DECLARES

HOPES FOR PRODUCTION

Strong hopes are held that dehydrating Processes Limited, recent occupants of the "old hatch factory," will satisfactorily pass through its experimental stages and on into production, the Era learned in an interview with Gordon Bazeley, of the firm's executive, this week.

Previously, the town council had tentatively set the date of Aug. 1 as the deadline on which the company should be a "going concern." The council has not held a meeting this month, however, and no action has been taken.

Mr. Bazeley expressed his confidence in the process used by the firm, and told The Era that work had been carried on at the plant for the past week or so. He hopes to be able to report satisfactory progress shortly.

Dehydrating Processes Limited, since they occupied the factory building last year, have spent a good deal of money in cleaning, painting, renovating, replacing broken windows and repairing the roof. The plant now appears to be in first-class shape inside and out.

BOWLERS MAKE GOOD IN PROVINCIAL MATCH

Phil Fingold and William Morris have been successfully carrying Aurora's honors in the provincial bowling tournament. Representing the Aurora bowling club, they took the leadership of Group 13-A, with a victory at Markham, recently.

On Monday evening the Aurora rink took on the pride of Tottenham, winners of Group 13-B, winning on neutral ground at Newmarket.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Atkinson, Miss D. Smith and Irwin Watts were among the prize-winners in Newmarket on Thursday evening of last week.

Foundry Turns Tables On Tanners In Playoff Tilt

DEFEAT TANNERY, 15-11, IN MONDAY GAME; WILL PLAY FRIDAY

After suffering considerably at the hands of the tanners on Friday night, the foundry lads staged a strong reversal of form to turn the tables, 15-11, in the second game of the town league softball play-offs on Monday night.

Tightening up behind the pitching of Bill Wilson, the foundry team hit strongly and seemed to have the tanners off balance, until the final inning, the last inning, however, saw the tanners slug in six runs to make the score look more respectable.

After a scoreless first inning the foundry cashed in with runs by Wilson and Clubine. The tanners replied with one run by Kidd. Runs by Cook, Ennis and Selman made the score 5-1 for the jubilant foundry squad in the third inning.

Whipperman found another run for the foundry in the fourth when he came in on a hit by Hayes. Cook also scored, coming on a two-bagger by Ennis. The tanners also clicked on two runs by Michaniuk and West. In this inning Michaniuk was replaced as pitcher by Wilf White, who had equal difficulty in topping the foundry hitters.

Gardner, of the foundry, scored the only run of the fifth inning, to give his team an 8-3 lead. In the sixth, Wilson's homer was followed by a two-bagger by Clubine, who came in on a hit by Gardner. Burtenshaw came through with a run for the tanners.

In the seventh, Hayes, Cook, Wilson and Clubine, liberally helped by errors, made the score 14-4 for the foundry. Whipperman, of the foundry, and Burtenshaw, of the tanners, tallied in the eighth.

In spite of the strong foundry lead, the tanners showed comeback tendencies in the last half of the ninth, tallying six runs, by Lustic, Hodgins, Michaniuk, West, Burtenshaw and Kidd.

UXBRIDGE LEADS IN LOCAL BOWLING MATCH

The rink skippered by J. Kennedy, of Uxbridge, took top place in the bowling tournament held by the Aurora bowling club on Wednesday afternoon and evening of last week. They had a score of 55 plus 7.

With a score of 48, the rink led by M. Bruton, of Withrow park club, Toronto, took high for three wins.

Fred Britton's Stouffville rink ousted Bradford and Balmby Beach clubs in a close tussle for high for two wins. Herbert Whyte's Newmarket team got high for one win. Prizes were presented by President C. A. Malloy.

FOUNDRIY TRIMMED IN FIRST BALL PLAY-OFF

ERRORS PAVE WAY AS TAN-NERS LAUNCH ON HIT-TING SPURGE

The first of the play-offs for the town league softball championship ended disastrously for the foundry squad on Friday evening, when they were almost clouted off the diamond by the tanners, 27-7.

As a result, the tanners rule as favorites in their best two-out-of-three series with the iron men.

Errors paved the way for the tannery victory, and the pavement formed a one-way street, as the tanners played tight ball to shut out any comeback attempts by the foundry lads.

Teams — Foundry: Whipperman, Wilson, Cook, Sutton, McCluskey, Innis, Clubine, Hatfield, Anthony, Hayes and Gardner.

Tannery: Kidd, W. White, R. White, Lustic, Hodgins, Michaniuk, West, Bertenshaw and Walker.

CELEBRATES 50 YEARS AS MINISTER THIS WEEK

Holidays end for Rev. A. R. Park, pastor of the Aurora Baptist church, this week. On Sunday evening he will relay something of what was accomplished at the World's Baptist Alliance, held recently at Atlanta, Georgia.

Rev. J. F. Paltram, who lives in retirement near Yonge St., south of Aurora, will celebrate the 50th anniversary of his ordination by taking the service at the Baptist church on Sunday morning.

Mrs. Clifford Copson and daughter, Gwendolyn, will sing at the evening service.

YONGE ST. RUNS UP NEW SAFE DRIVING RECORD

With 17 deaths in 1937, and six in 1938, there have been none so far this year on Yonge St. highway between Toronto and Bradford, according to department of highways information.

Provincial Constables Howard Jackson, Alex. Ferguson and Ed. Purvis attribute this record to more care and closer observance of the law by motorists, as the result of constant publicity.

JIM FARLEY DOES WELL IN CADDY TOURNAMENT

"Local boy makes good," tells the story of 13-year-old Jimmy Farley, caddy at the Aurora golf club, who borrowed clubs and entered the caddy tournament at Summit golf club recently.

Steady play brought Jimmy victory over the rest of his flight and a fine prize of $5.

ABOUT TOWN

INDEPENDENT

We find ourselves interested in persistent rumors that there will be no Conservative candidate in this riding in the next federal election—and in the rumor that an independent candidate will run instead.

The rumor has gained strength, not because it has been affirmed by those "in the know" but because it has not been denied.

The idea would appear to be that an independent candidate might obtain a measure of Liberal votes, and these, combined with Conservative and other votes, might possibly defeat the Liberal candidate—which would appear to be the aim of all good Conservatives.

No one has suggested, yet, that an independent candidature might also prove a Conservative defeat.

We hold no brief for any political party—trying, in our groping way, to vote for the party which from time to time may offer what we think is the best legislation. We vote for the party offering the best men and the best methods.

If the Liberals believe they can do better for Canada they owe it to themselves to try their best to become elected to power. If the Conservatives believe their policies to be the best, they, too, should place their platform before the people.

If, however, Conservatives fail to produce a candidate, it would seem that they either lack faith in their policies, or lack faith in the intelligence of the voters. In which case we would not blame them for dropping out of the election fight.

If the Conservatives drop out, then perhaps another party may have a chance to oppose successfully the Liberals in this riding. If the Conservatives believe an independent candidate can split the Liberal vote, let them withdraw and give an independent a chance.

If they want the independent to win, and believe that the Conservatives cannot win, then their sincerity will be best evidenced by a clean-cut withdrawal from the federal field in this riding.

Otherwise, the independent candidate might impress the voters as being under Conservative sponsorship—in which case we surmise that the only party such a candidate would split would be the Conservatives.

No voter, except one anxious to defeat the Liberal party, will vote for a candidate who is only "Conservatively independent." And the Liberal candidate can be counted on to draw attention to this.

ON THE OTHER HAND

However, we can see no reason why Conservatives cannot hope to win a federal election in this riding—excepting, of course, the "reason" of the present Liberal member.

A strong organization, a strong candidate, and a strong policy for Canada will do much to revive elective interest in the Conservative party. And there is still plenty of time to form the organization, find the candidate, and build the platform.

We cannot believe that the Conservatives have forgotten how to fight an election.

WHY THIS YEAR?

There has been much talk about a forthcoming election this autumn. Along with many others we had begun to think this fall was the proper time for such an election.

Our trip to the west woke us up a little in this regard. . . no one we met out there could see any reason for an election at this time. The Liberals have a year to go, the westerners contended. Why upset the country, involve extra election expense, without reason, they ask. And then they point out that the Conservatives hung on for their full term before going to the voters.

The European situation is given as reason for an election by those who would like to see a vote at this time. However, this reason was just as good—or just as bad—last year. The last time the Conservatives came into power, it struck many folk that they picked a bad time to win, and that the Liberals picked a mighty nice time to be out of office.

If the European situation continues to threaten, and the Conservatives go into power again, it might well be that they have again selected a bad time to win.

AND SO ON

Our own hope is that whatever party goes into power in the next election has a comparatively small majority. We wouldn't like to see the country ruled by a party whip. And if the Euro-

Aurora Beaten 7-4 In First Of Playoffs

LOAD BASES TO EVEN SCORE
BUT RUNS FAIL TO COME IN

PLAY IN SUTTON TONIGHT

Aurora's first game of the Simcoe softball league play-off series ended badly for the home-town runners on Tuesday night when Sutton came from behind an early-inning lead to win 7-4.

Mechaniuk, whose last-minute homer in a previous game against Sutton, with the bases loaded, had resulted in an Aurora victory, had the same opportunity again on Tuesday night, but this time his magic wand failed to do the trick and he went out on a fly ball.

The Aurorans played without their regular catcher, Max Buck, who is out of the game with a bad finger. His place was taken ably by "Hank" Clubine. "Nugget" Shore returned from his studies in time to pitch, though it was thought at first that a foot injury would keep him out of the play-offs.

Aurora looked like the winning team in the first inning, when runs by Bone, White and Heaney gave the Aurorans a 3-0 lead.

In the second, however, Smith and Tomlinson gave Sutton two runs and followed it up by making the Aurorans look bad in the fourth, as Doble, Hamilton, Smith and Tomlinson crossed the plate for Sutton.

Shore did all the scoring for Aurora in the third when he whipped out a home run.

The last score of the game came when Tomlinson earned his third run in the fifth inning.

Aurora's big chance came in the eighth inning. Bone bunted to first and White went out on a fly. Heaney got a nice hit to first and Shore walked, to load the bases with only one out. Hodgins, usually a dependable hitter, fanned, and Michaniuk knocked a fly into left field which was caught to retire the side without a score.

Teams — Auroras: Pattenen, Bone, White, Heaney, Shore, Hodgins, Michaniuk, Clubine and Sutton.

Sutton: McKelvey, Burkholder, Doble, Hamilton, McNeil, Milroy, Smith, Tilson, Waldon, Fairbairn.

ANTS BY DELPHINIUM

Ants are of ancient and hono- rable lineage. King Solomon in gathering together the proverbs used by his people for generations and adding many himself, speaks highly of the ant's forethought and industry.

In Prov. 6:6, we read, "Go to the ant, thou sluggard, consider her ways and be wise. Which hav- ing no guide, overseer or ruler, provideth her meat in the summer and gathereth her food in the harvest." Again, in Prov. 30: 24-25, In the words of Agur, this nature study chapter, we read, "There be four things which are little upon the earth, but they are exceeding wise; the ants are a people not strong, yet they prepare their meat in the summer."

If the ant went at the sluggard, he would soon lose his sluggishness, for they are the greatest hustlers and some of them bite. Webster says that the neuter ants have a hidden sting. Though it is plenty season, not all the ants have taken time off to attend.

In Nonsense Rhymes, we wrote: "A little black ant to a picnic went, And sampled a piece of cake. A small boy ate that same piece of cake And had more than a stomach ache."

A nephew of mine, when quite small, used to call me "ant!" "Hello, Ant!" which sounded like "ant!" The only resemblance between me and the ant was that I, too, provided in the summer a large provision for the winter, which is considered wise. But I am unlike the ant in that I have a waist, and the ant just hasn't. No wonder he can fit himself up in all shapes and do such athletic stunts.

One day I noticed a lot of large black ants running up the corner of the house outside. I wondered if they had found a way to the sugar bag upstairs. But there were no signs of them in the room where sugar, honey and tea sup- plies are kept. I kept watching the ants down and stepping on them. That seemed the only way to kill them.

Some time later, I found some in the pantry, but the honey pail had a secure lid, the sugar in the cans had close fitting lids, the cakes and cookies, if there were any, were in tin containers and ant-proof. I knew the ants were one thing the ants would not touch, but where was I to put it?

I decided to try the poison fly and poison them, so I added a little water to a dish of the poison and, sprinkled sugar generously and placed it on the pantry table. Later, I saw the ants having a

WHITCHURCH RATE MOVES DOWNWARD

Whitchurch township tax rate again points decidedly down- ward, it was revealed at the monthly council meeting on Sat- urday, when the various rates were struck. The drop is one- half mill lower than last year, which is viewed as an outstand- ing accomplishment in view of the fact that the council pur- chased a road grader costing $5,500 and put the roads in bet- ter condition than they have been in for years.

The proposal advanced at last meeting to collect taxes through the treasurer's office was laid over for a month owing to lack of time to deal with the matter. R. E. Ratcliff, collector last year, offered to take on the job again at a salary of $200, a reduction of $100, provided the council would furnish postage and allow the bills to be delivered through the mail.

"I do not think the work could be done properly at the town- ship office," said Mr. Ratcliff in presenting his offer.

I. A. Bracey complained against the operation of motor- boats on Lake Wilcox in the presence of large crowds of people, especially on Sundays. The council will advise the constable to warn all operators of such boats. Constables will also be asked to investigate a complaint again nude bathing at Haines Lake.

R. E. Andrew presented the auditor's report, which was ac- cepted by council. The auditor stated that the books of the clerk and treasurer are in good order, clean and accurate.

Considerable irritation was expressed over the net outcome of court action taken against a number of ratepayers who neglected to pay their dog-tax. The information was advanced by the clerk that half a dozen have never yet paid despite being fined.

"We'll have to keep on bark- ing at them," said Deputy-Reeve Cook amidst laughter. F. C. Cummings was granted $85 for collecting dog taxes when mak- ing his assessment. He gathered in over $1,000 at that time.

Messrs. Leary and Cook moved the following resolution, which was carried: "Following a re- quest by the Musselman's Lake Ratepayers Association that council prohibit dancing on Sun- day in all dance halls in the township, therefore this council goes on record as being opposed to dancing on Sundays, and in- structs the constables to enforce the prohibition of dancing on Sundays in all halls in the town- ship."

This resolution was instigated by a letter from S. R. Proctor in which he declared the association at Musselman's and other citi- zens held strong objections to dancing which is going on.

Reeve Toole presided over the meeting and others present were Deputy-Reeve Cook and Coun- cillors Geo. Leary, Herman Kidd, and Herbert Wells.

wonderful time devouring that sweetened water. There was not enough poison to bother them. I brought out the plate, ants and all, and thought, "I'll drown them. Having no hot water, I scalded water might have done the trick. I poured on cold water, but the restless ants scurried around the edge of the plate, over the sides, up my arms, but not in the water. So I took them out of doors. Knocked them off and stepped on all I could.

Later at night, I prepared to make raspberry jam with half rhubarb. I put the rhubarb, cut fine, and the raspberries, in a kettle and weighed them on the big platform scales in the scap. I added what sugar I had handy, and left the kettle there to add more sugar in the morning. When I beheld that kettle in the morning, there were the ants, a few of them. What a time they must have had reaching that kettle. What a sense of smell they must have to smell out the fruit and sugar, and what a time to climb up the shank of the scales, around the big scap, up the kettle to the sugar.

Well, I thought, what next? I took the kettle outside, kept shaking it till every ant ran out and I stepped on them. I know I got them all out, for I ate the scum and there were no ants in it. So that jam is quite safe for eating. But no doubt the ants are all that Solomon says of them. They are wise and provident. In the summer they gather a great provi- sion and store it in the chambers of their ant hills for winter food. They do not use it all during the summer and expect to go on relief for the winter. Their ant houses are wonderful in construction. I might suggest that the Egyptians may have copied the ant's archi- tecture in building the pyramids. However, wise and energetic as ants are, we do not want them in our homes.

The powder, Sodium Fluoride, is useful in combatting these insects. Poultrymen use this poison to dust the hens. It is a white poison powder. Scatter lightly in the places frequented by ants and leave it undisturbed till the ants disappear. Be careful not to put it near flour, or where children or domestic pets can get at it.

Or, fill a sponge with sweetened water, or some bait material, to coax the ants, and when covered, immerse in scalding water — not cold water. The ant hills may be destroyed by puncturing with holes and pouring in several spoonfuls of carbon bisulphate, covering with a sack to keep in the gas which will destroy them.

Let them keep their homes, put up their winter's provisions and go to picnics, but keep them from the sugar, cakes, etc., in the pantry.

Bring On The Finger Bowl

The man walked into an ex- clusive and costly restaurant. He was shown to a table and he immediately ordered a glass of water, which he swallowed with one gulp. Then he asked for another glass of water. While the waiter was away, the man took a small package of sand- wiches and spread them on the table. No sooner was this done than a severe-looking individual came to the table and said, "beg your pardon, sir, but this isn't."

"Who are you?" interrupted the man.

"I am the manager," was the impressive reply.

"Good!" said the man. "I was just going to send for you. Why isn't the orchestra playing?"

her for any farther back than six years."

"I had a different idea of it," stated Councillor D. O. Mun-govan. "I heard that Mrs. Cane bought the property in 1931 and didn't check up for a couple of years and then she found out about the arrears in taxes. She paid the arrears in sewer charges and was also charged a penalty on them."

"Did the part of the lot on Eagle St. go all those years without paying any sewer charge?"
asked Mayor S. J. Boyd.

"No doubt some of those years
the corner on Eagle St. did get off, but it is being charged now," answered Clerk Mathews. "This mistake was made by Mr. Anderson some time ago, but the town will lose by it, as the people living in town now will have to pay for the refund."

Say $600 Annually Lost

A letter was also read from Frank Robinson stating that he understood he had been overcharged for power while he ran the mill and that he thought the matter should be looked into.
The letter was referred to the water and light committee.

"Is there a business at the north end of town using a diesel engine to supply their power
now?" asked Councillor Mun-govan.

"The owner (J. A. Perks, who is now running Robinson's mill) never consulted us at all, but went ahead and purchased a diesel engine to generate his own power as he thought it would be cheaper than to buy power from the town," replied Councillor Arthur Evans, chairman of the water and light committee.

"Since we investigated and found that the mill was being overcharged for power, he has been trying to get out of his contract with the diesel company. However, according to his contract,
he has to give 11 months notice to the company."

"In 1936 or 1937 there was a mistake made in the clerk's office, when the mill changed from 50 to 30 horsepower and we didn't know about it until the man complained that his power rates were high. Since we found the mistake Mr. Rachar has tried to fix up the matter and we have already given him a refund."

"We will lose $600 every year from now on because of this engine being used," commented Councillor Mungovan.

Deputy-Reeve Joseph Vale,
also a member of the water and light committee, stated that the man had already entered into a contract with the diesel company when he complained about his power bill being very high,
so that they couldn't prevent the town losing the sale of power.

"A man at the north end has been complaining for some time about his power bills and he has been a very hostile individual,"
stated Councillor Joseph Spill-ette, member of the water and light committee. "Mr. Rachar and I went to see the man and we explained to him our method of billing, etc., and other factors
and we left him in a very satisfactory mood."

Tax Sale Adjourned

"Although there were 47 properties listed to be sold at the tax sale here today only three properties were sold," stated Clerk Mathews. "At the first sale held today all properties were put up for auction and no amount less than the taxes could be tendered for them. If no bids are tendered for one week and then at the adjourned sale any bid is accepted for the property.
Also the municipality or town can bid in at the adjourned sale."

"The town cannot bid higher than the taxes and if someone else bids higher, then they get the property. There are several properties the town should buy in and also several that should be sold for what they can bring in. If we are going to bid in at the adjourned sale, we will have to inform the papers about it."

"The buyers of the three properties at the first sale each got a good bargain but I imagine the bidding will be higher at the next sale," continued Mr. Mathews. "There are certainly some properties that the town should bid in rather than let them be sold."

The following motion was adopted by the council: That the town bid in some of the properties listed for the tax sale and publish notice of its intention so to do, and that the finance committee go over the list of properties with the clerk and decide on what properties to bid on.

"At the last meeting Mr. Jack Kennedy complained that he had been charged for sewer service
for his property on Gorham St.
and that he wished the matter
to be looked into," stated Reeve Fred Lundy. "Our town engineer,
W. B. Redfern, has investigated the matter and in his letter he recommends that Mr. Kennedy be reimbursed for the amount paid by him for sewer service on Gorham St. and that he be charged for the small portion of his property on Hamilton St."

The following motion was adopted: That a refund of $75.75 be given to Jack Kennedy for sewer rates charged since 1924 and that no further rates be charged on the Gorham St. frontage in the future.

Councillor A. V. Higginson, chairman of the relief committee, stated in his report that there were 85 on relief in July this year and 86 last year. The cost of relief for July this year was $511.18 while last year it was $496.65, Mr. Higginson stated.

Resignation Refused

"There was one matter adjourning at the last meeting that I should like to be taken up at this time," stated Councillor William Dixon, chairman of the police committee, who tendered his resignation as chairman of that committee at the last council meeting. "Since I gave in my resignation I've been blamed for every dog-fight in town and I suppose I will be in the future.
I gave in my resignation as the police were interfered with and told to lay off at the fair grounds during the old boys' reunion and I ask you to accept it. Also the police were told to let things go on that were not legal."

"I'm sorry I was away when you gave in your resignation at the last meeting," stated Mayor Boyd. "But possibly it is better
I was away, as I have had time to think over your resignation and what you have said. I respect Mr. Dixon's opinion and I would ask all the other members of council to join with me in asking Mr. Dixon to reconsider his resignation. I have nothing to say and I won't open the controversy."

"I wish to congratulate Mr.
Dixon for the bleachers he had erected at the fair grounds.
They are well built and what we wanted. Mr. Dixon showed promptness and speed as well as efficiency in the way in which he had the work done. We appreciate everything Mr. Dixon has done. However, the majority won, as it always does, when the police were told to lay off and Mr. Dixon's wish was not carried out."

"Don't thank me for getting the bleachers built but thank the committee," replied Councillor Dixon. "I don't agree with you on the other matter. We must see that the law is carried out by the police and that there is no interference from any outside source or from the council and no one must tell them to lay off.
It will depend on the vote of the council whether or not I remain
as chairman of the committee.
If you do not accept my resignation, and in the future anyone interferes in any shape or form with the police, they will get into serious trouble. It is against the law and a criminal offence to interfere with the police."

"Who did interfere?" asked Reeve Lundy.

"Both you and the mayor did when you told the police to lay off," answered Councillor Dixon.

"There is one thing I want cleared up," stated Reeve Lundy.
"At the last meeting Mr. Dixon said I double-crossed him but I want it known that I didn't know anything about what was going on at the fair grounds until the meeting during the reunion and I gave my opinion then."

"I never implied that you had double-crossed me," stated Mr.
Dixon.

"I am grateful to Mr. Dixon for a great many things also,"
stated Councillor Joseph Spill-ette. "However, I think it is disgraceful the publicity we have been getting lately. I think we have one of the finest police departments in North America and now it is being exploited in all the newspapers. About the beer—we had the veterans here
as our guests and if anyone has a right to any beer they have that right. They had a little beer and I think it was only right for them to have that beer. Also they drank the beer warm and if I had known about it I would have brought over a barrow of ice for them. I do have any reflection being cast on the police department of the town."

"The people with the beer know everything was wide open,
so they brought it into the grounds," stated Mr. Dixon. "One man told me since the reunion that his son under 18 and another boy were accosted outside of the fair grounds by a bootlegger who had a bottle in each hand."

"I'm sick of this whole thing," stated Deputy-Reeve Vale. "At the last meeting I was in favor of Mr. Dixon's opinion and I thought he was doing right but tonight I am astonished at his attitude and it strikes me as being ridiculous. Mr. Dixon seems to be worked up tonight."

"I'm not worked up," retorted
Mr. Dixon.

"I think Mayor Boyd's proposition is very fair," continued Mr.
Vale. "However, I don't think we need to have a police committee at all."

"I don't think we need the committee either and I won't attend any more meetings, as I have resigned also," stated Reeve

Lundy.

"I am standing up for the police committee as I think it is a good thing to discuss with the police their problems," stated Mayor Boyd. "We did not tell the police what not to do. The committee was a valuable means of communication between this council and the police. I am proud of the first of July celebration. It was carried on in a very gentlemanly and sober attitude. We had a good crowd there and I am sorry this adverse publicity has crept in to mar the pleasure of what was otherwise a pleasant affair."

"I have respect for anyone who is man enough to express his views on a subject," stated Councillor Arthur Evans. "Would
it be possible to forget about law enforcement and think about law and order? I think both Dixon and Lundy should stay on the committee and I move that their resignations be not accepted."

"Everything wrong has been blamed on me for the last while back," stated Mr. Dixon. "The only thing I have been interested in is the observance of the law.
The police have been criticized a lot lately also. I will have nothing to do with anything that happens in the future."

"I will second the motion that we do not accept the resignations of the two men," stated Councillor A. V. Higginson.

"As far as I can see we are not supposed to legislate morality but to see that the laws are enforced," stated Councillor Mungovan. "There should be cooperation between the police committee and the council and I am not in favor of accepting the two resignations."

Councillor Frank Bowser stated that he was in accordance with Mr. Mungovan.

Deputy-Reeve Vale stated that he too was not in favor of accepting the resignations.

The mayor asked for a vote concerning the resignations and everyone voted that they be not accepted.

At this point Angus West, who had come in during the hearing, stated he had come up to give in
his resignation as chairman of the old boys' reunion committee and the council all joined in a neatly laugh and the discussion was terminated.

Consider Debentures

"We want to go ahead with the new switchboard and other improvements at the sub-station
as advocated by Mr. McClymont's report, but we are not sure yet whether or not we will get a rebate from the Hydro," stated Deputy-Reeve Vale. "So we think that the municipal board should be approached concerning debentures."

"I think we should go on without waiting for the debentures to be raised, as Mr. McClymont told us that the board was dangerous, and one board did blow up at Fort William," stated Councillor Evans.

"If this is a question as to whether or not the board will blow up, it should have been looked into years ago," stated Councillor Mungovan. "I can't see why you are in such a hurry
now."

"I wasn't on the water and light committee before this year," answered Councillor Evans.

"What the water and light committee want to do is to carry out Mr. McClymont's suggestions," stated Mr. Vale.

"The public utility will in time
pay for this debenture," stated Mayor Boyd.

"We're not deciding tonight to issue debentures," stated Clerk Mathews. "We're only taking a precaution by approaching the municipal board, so we'll be safe. We will ask their approval for the debenture."

Gifts Accepted

Deputy-Reeve Vale, who is an executor of the will of the late Edgar Bogart, told the council that Mr. Bogart had left a bequest of $100 to the town for improvements at the South African war memorial and that he had also left the north lot of his property to be used as a memorial park or peace garden in memory of his father. The will also states that if the lot is not accepted by the town that it is to be sold and the money used for a memorial library, he said.

"There is a question of law involved as to whether or not you accept the bequests and I would like you to decide on the matter, so that I can get the will straightened out," stated Mr.
Vale.

"I think we should take the bequests as set forth in the will and use the lot as a park," stated Reeve Lundy.

The following motion was adopted: That the town of Newmarket gratefully accept all bequests and devises in its favor in the will of the late Edgar Bogart.

NOISE NUISANCE

BY GOLDEN GLOW

I have had several such exceedingly nice letters these past few weeks, and I have wanted to acknowledge them personally, but August is such an extra busy month that up to now I have not had a chance. So may I just say a very deep heartfelt "thank you" to those who have written me, and I feel sure they understand why I have taken this way of saying "thanks", for most of them are like myself — busy housewives.

But, there was a letter that set me thinking and wondering, and I resolved to answer it here to the best of my ability, which in this case is very much below par, I must admit. A friend has been greatly annoyed by what she calls the "noise nuisance" of speedboats and outboard motors, at the summer resort where she and her family have taken a cottage for a month. Anybody who lives near a lake, or one who goes for even a day or an evening, or just an afternoon, must realize that it could get to be a proper nuisance, for there is scarcely a time of the day or night that you are not hearing them roaring along. And, as she says, "we have taken the cottage for a month, so must just put up with it as best we can; but my nerves are worn to a frazzle already, and we haven't been here a week yet." That was from Lake Simcoe.

We have recently returned from a visit to Bala Park, Muskoka Lake, and it is exactly the same there. One day several speedboats seemed to be just chasing their tails or something, for they kept going round in circles, and you really felt as if your car-drums would be shattered before they got through with their gymnastics. Yet, when you are having a ride, the noise never bothers you the same way. It surely is a vexing question, for young people are not doing it just to be a nuisance. We all know that. We were young once and noises didn't bother us then. It is hard to put ourselves in the other fellow's place, but again, when we begin to get older, why should we want to deprive the younger generation of their fun? Youth is always noisy! I wonder if we were a young man, going to call for the girl friend to go for a joy-ride, if we wouldn't give a motor-car horn, to tell her we were waiting at the curb? I recall the time when it was the fashion in our town to give all newly married couples a rousing, roaring old charivari, and such a din! The "Gang" owned a "horse-fiddle", and, of all unearthy noises, that was the worst. No doubt, some folks thought it all just a "noise nuisance", and should be promptly suppressed. Why the young folks of our town at that time didn't consider themselves properly married unless the "gang" came around to give them a good old-fashioned "charivari", and if the word went round when the celebration was to be, plenty of others were on hand as spectators, to enjoy the fun. Usually, a tip was given the young married couple so they could be prepared, and it really was like a house-warming. Of course, the "noise" led to the "abuse" and rowdiness began to creep in and it became more like a "hold-up", and was accordingly severely put on by decent-living people. So, a harmless, old-time, neighborly custom became extinct with its jolly harmless fun.

But I am getting away from our subject, namely, noisy outboard motorboats and speedcraft. I must admit I can't see any remedy, but must just "grin and bear it," as we used to say, and try and put ourselves in the place of the chap enjoying his swift ride, absolutely unconscious that he is, or could be, a nuisance to anybody. Summer is so short, and youth, alas!

However, you do not have to go to summer resorts to have a noise nuisance, for they are at our very doors. Day after day the children race along on their noisy scooters or a box attached to a roller-skate, or with some flopping thing attached to their tricycles or bicycles, race round and round the block, or even our well-known garbage collector, with his noisy motor-horn, like a siren, and his truck, running without a muffler, back-firing at intervals to be sure we get good measure, comes along the avenue.

So let me end up in the words of a popular song of a few years ago: "What to do about it — let's put out the light and go to sleep!"

PACKERS PURCHASE ON DRESSED BASIS

PACKERS' RULING WENT INTO EFFECT ON JULY 31ST

(From Rural Co-operator)

On July 17, Ontario packing plants announced that beginning on July 24 they would buy hogs throughout Ontario on a rail grade basis only. Upon the special request of the commission firms at the union stockyards, Toronto, the date for the commencement of this policy was deferred for a period of one week, and became effective on July 31.

The statement issued by the packers states that "in 1931 the joint swine committee for Canada recommended that the dominion department of agriculture investigate the value and feasibility of grading hogs dressed on the rail as a means of advancing our national bacon hog policy. From 1931 to 1934 the problem was thoroughly studied and extensive experiments made." (The joint swine committee is a committee of about ten persons including representatives of the federal government, the packers and producers.)

"In 1934," the statement continues, "hog grading regulations were amended on recommendation of the joint swine committee so as to make the grading of dressed hogs on the rail a part of the system of trading in hogs. From 1934 to the present time trading on dressed weights and rail grades has developed alongside of trading in live weights and grades. Now, in 1939, about 56 per cent of all hogs slaughtered at inspected plants in Ontario are rail grade."

From the first it was intended, says the packers' letter, that if rail grading was found feasible and practical it should, as soon as possible, supplant live grading. And then it adds—"Ontario packers feel that this should now be done."

Commission firms on the Toronto stockyards have publicly registered their disapproval of this change in policy. Their views have been expressed in a series of broadcasts over CFRB during the past two weeks by Roy McPhail, formerly manager of the Manitoba Livestock Co-operative, and now secretary of Canadian Livestock Sales Agencies.

The hog producer in Ontario is asking us this question, says Mr. McPhail—does 100 per cent rail grading of hogs make it harder or easier for the packer to buy hogs on his own terms? Answering the question, Mr. McPhail says: "In our opinion there can be only one answer to the above question, and it is this—certainly rail grading makes it much easier."

Rural Co-operator as to whether or not this move is going to give the packers more control of price, Mr. McPhail replied—"We believe that it will. For example, during the week of July 31, the first week in which this policy went into effect, hog prices were as follows: Monday, $11.50; Tuesday, $11; Wednesday, $10.85; Thursday, $10.75; Friday, $10.65 to $10.75. During this same week British bacon prices remained steady and hams went up two shillings."

Information Department

Farmer Jenkins made his way into the village post office that also was the general store. "Anything for me?" he inquired of the postmaster. The other raked over a few parcels and letters, but found nothing. "Don't see nothing," he said. "Did you expect something?"

"Yes," answered the farmer. "I was expecting a card from Aunt Jenny, tellin' me when she's comin'."

"Hannah," called the postmaster to his wife, "seen a card from Mr. Jenkins' Aunt Jenny?"

"Yes," came the prompt answer. "She's comin' down Tuesday."

ATTEND REUNION

Mrs. John Mortonson and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Mortonson attended the Mortonson reunion held at the park in Aurora last week.

Looking Ahead
Young Douglas had reached the age of seven, when he was promoted to the dignity of having a room to himself. His parents had furnished it with great care, and showed it to him with no little pride and satisfaction.

Douglas viewed it in silence. "Now, son," said his father, "this furniture is of the best. It will last you a lifetime."

Still Douglas kept silent. "Don't you like it, Douglas?" "Oh, yes; I like it. But how do I know my wife will like it?"
